Friday, August 1, 2008 Workshop

Teaching about the Origins Debate in Churches and Schools

8:30 AM–4:30 PM

For many years, ASA Vice President Ted Davis has been teaching students and church members about aspects of the origins debate. In this workshop, Ted will present his unit on the origins debate to participants, as if they were in his class. Participants will receive hard copies of his outlines (electronic copies will be made available upon request after the workshop), experience his teaching methods, participate as if they were in his course, and interact with him about the content and methods that make up the unit. Five approaches to origins issues will be discussed: scientific creationism, concordism (old earth creationism), the framework hypothesis, theistic evolution, and intelligent design. The $50 workshop fee includes all materials and lunch on Friday.

Limit: 20 ASA/CSCA members only

Field Trips

All field trips leave from the Wood-Mar Hall parking lot at 8:30 AM with the exception of those going to Mt St Helens which will leave at 8:00 AM

Friday, August 1

1. Mount St Helens

Visit several sites that show the various phases of the 1980 eruption and its aftermath. There will be a limited amount of walking. Box lunch and admission to Johnston Ridge Visitor Center included.

Limit: 45

Cost: $60

2. Birding near Tillamook

Add some birds to your life list. View rustic scenery of the Pacific Northwest Coast, and wrap up the trip by enjoying ice cream at the Tillamook Creamery. Spotting scopes will be provided, bring your own binoculars if you wish. Bring money for ice cream, box lunch is included.

Limit: 10

Cost: $40

3. Geology of the Columbia Gorge

Explore volcanic evolution of Columbia River Gorge through examination of the rocks and features that make up this cross section of the Cascade Range. Stops will include Mt Tabor, Rocky Butte, Crown Point, Latourelle and Multnomah Falls, Stravation Creek, Hood River, Panorama Point, Meyer State Park, The Dalles, Wind Mountain, Beacon Rock, Cape Horn and the evidence of the Bretz floods along the entire route. Handouts and bottled water will be provided. Bring sturdy walking shoes, wind breakers, hat, field clothes, and personal first aid supplies. Box lunch included.

Limit: 20

Cost: $40

4. Evergreen Air Museum

Evergreen Aviation and Space Museum houses the Spruce Goose, a Lockheed Blackbird, and a model of the flying machine of Leonardo da Vinci as well as a replica of the Wright brothers' flyer. A guided tour of the air museum, exploring the space museum, watching an Omnimax film, having a snack at the Café or tasting wine from grapes grown around the museum. Bring money for snack, lunch, and optional wine tasting.

Limit: 10

Cost: $50

5. Energy at Oregon State University

Visit two fascinating engineering research labs at OSU in beautiful Corvallis, about an hour's drive south of George Fox University. In the morning we will visit the nation's only university ocean wave energy extraction research program funded from federal resources, led by Dr. Annette von Jouanne. This will be followed by a lunch on campus, giving us a chance to mingle with the students as school will still be in session at OSU. In the afternoon we will visit the Nuclear Engineering and Radiation Health Physics Department, headed by Dr. José Reyes, one of the top rated programs of its kind in the United States. Box lunch included.

Limit: 20

Cost: $40

6. Oregon Trail History and Mt Hood

The Willamette Valley was the destination for many Oregon Trail pioneers. The tour will include a visit to Champoeg State Park, the first “government site” of the Oregon territories; Oregon City, the “end of the Oregon Trail” and the retirement home of John McLoughlin; Fort Vancouver National Park, built in 1825 by John McLoughlin, “Father of Oregon”; and possibly Mt Hood, tallest mountain in Oregon at 11,235 feet, and its Timberline Lodge built by the WPA in 1935/6. Box lunch and admission to parks and museums included.

Limit: 10

Cost: $55

Saturday, August 2

7. Outing around Newberg

Taste a variety of locally roasted coffees. Then on to a nursery that specializes in heirloom roses where we will learn about the roses and eat our box lunch. We end with a tour through the Hoover-Minthorne House where Herbert Hoover spent some time as a young man. Box lunch, museum admission and coffee tasting included.

Limit: 10

Cost: $56
