Responding to current events: The Ark Encounter

The image shows a screenshot of the Ark Encounter website. At the top left is the 'ARK ENCOUNTER' logo. The navigation menu includes 'TICKETS', 'PLACES TO STAY', 'THINGS TO DO', and 'ABOUT THE ARK'. On the top right, there are search and 'SIGN IN' icons. The main banner features a large wooden ark structure under a blue sky with the text 'THINK BIGGER' in large white letters. Below the banner is a red button labeled 'TICKET OPTIONS'. Four white promotional cards are arranged in a row, each with a title, a short description, and a representative image.

I watched this because I wanted to get into how creationism really works, and that is exactly what I got. If you want your biases confirmed, then this is the movie to watch. When creationism is presented as "factual" information. Soon maybe after the first ten minutes you could start to see how terrible it actually is. Overall it is very one-sided and actually is the most biased movie I have seen yet. There is not even a single counter claim. All of the 'specialist' shown all fully believe in creationism. I am by no means atheist but this movie might have even drove me farther away. This movie honestly deserves less than one star, but it can keep one because the best thing about this movie was the camera that was used.

Really liked it, and what is presented in the theme of geology it seems more rational than a lot of modern geology theories. You should see it! Unless you are a closeminded conventional science endorser.
